CECC UPDATE: TIBETAN SELF-IMMOLATIONS

June 17, 2013

Tibetan Self-Immolations Reported or Believed To Focus on Political and Religious Issues
Summary, Source, and Location Information as of June 11, 2013

The following summary, map, and list provide updated Tibetan self-immolation information current as of June 11, 2013. The profile of the self-immolators has changed from a majority who were current or former monastics located in Sichuan province, to a majority who were laypersons located outside of Sichuan province.

- As of June 11, 2013, the total number of Tibetan self-immolations reported to focus on political and religious issues reached 115—101 of them reportedly were fatal. (The total does not include Qinghai province property protests by females Dekyi Choezom and Pasang Lhamo on June 27 and September 13, 2012, respectively, and an unidentified woman in March 2013; and the April 6, 2012, deaths of a Tibetan Buddhist abbot, Athub, and a nun, Atse, in a Sichuan house fire initially reported as accidental and later as self-immolation. The Commission continues to monitor reports on their deaths.)
- 64 of the 115 self-immolators reportedly were lay persons; 51 were current or former monks or nuns.
- 60 of the 115 self-immolations reportedly took place in Qinghai and Gansu provinces and the Tibet Autonomous Region; 55 took place in Sichuan province.
- 99 of the 115 self-immolators were male; 46 were current or former monks; 53 were laypersons.
- 16 of the 115 self-immolators were female; 5 were current or former nuns; 11 were laypersons.
